Township to fight land grab

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

NAMEOKI — Nameoki Township officials are planning to fight Granite City's annexation of 33 homes in Gorge Subdivision.

Township Attorney Irv. Slate Jr. said he's examining possible legal action that will depend on how the property was annexed. Then, he said, township trustees will determine what action, if any, to take. Township officials have until Jan. 20 to take legal action, Supervisor Harry Briggs Sr. said.

At the Nameoki Town Board meeting Monday, Briggs said township officials are checking into how much assessed valuation the township lost to the city because of the annexation.

The annexation will be discussed at a special meeting at 7 p.m., Jan. 4, at the township office, 4250 Illinois 162.

The annexed area is about 8½ acres, and includes addresses from 3308 to 3336 Johnson Road, from 3325 to 3345 Palm St., from 2308 to 2312 Clark Ave., from 2304 to 2321 St. Bernard Ave. and from 2295 to 2319 Gary Ave.

58 depend on sheltered care

The hand-lettered sign taped to a filing cabinet in Donna Marrone's office says a lot about the climate surrounding the Madison County Sheltered Care Home. "Expect a big miracle."

Board will weigh higher tax

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County Board will meet in special session Jan. 6 to consider placing a tax increase referendum on the March 15 primary election ballot.

Madison County Director of Administration James K. Monday said the possible referendum would seek voter approval to raise the tax rate limit supporting the county's deficit-ridden Sheltered Care Home.

The 9:30 a.m. Jan. 6 meeting is necessary in order to meet a state-mandated deadline of Jan. 10 for placing new issues on the March ballot, Monday said.

The referendum is possible under a new state law that Marrone, a professional staff member at the home for the last 14 years and its administrator since September, acknowledges. "We're in a lot of trouble now — again." The "trouble" is that, unless the county finds new revenues to allows counties to place such requests before voters, Robert Stille, chairman of the county's Health Institutions Committee, said.

A $6.5 million bond issue for a new combined Sheltered Care and Nursing Home in November 1986 was defeated by county voters.

Despite that defeat, some County Board members have viewed a tax increase as a last-ditch effort to salvage the Sheltered Care Home, which is partly subsidized by the county.

Without new revenues, county officials have warned, they may have to begin dismantling the operation by mid-June.

support the institution soon, the 58 residents who call the complex home will be facing eviction.

The home, situated on 11 acres on South Main Street in Edwardsville, is still referred to on some older county plat maps as the "county poor farm." It has been accepting residents since 1883.

Marrone said that if closure is necessary, residents at the home "won't just be put out." The county and other agencies will attempt to find places for them.

"The Illinois Departments of Public Health and Public Aid have provided us with procedures for closing down, if it comes to that. We just don't know if it can be done," Marrone said.

If a shutdown is ordered, some of the residents will likely have to be placed outside Southern Illinois or even out-of-state, Marrone said.

County officials have said that, unless new revenues are generated, contingency plans for closing the home are in effect.

BAC to run steel center

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The new year will bring new administrative leadership to Granite City Steel's training center.

Belleville Area College trustees this month voted to take over the administrative duties of the training center starting Jan. 1. The industrial education program at the center has been jointly operated by BAC and the steel firm for 12 years.

The program will cost the school an estimated $85,764 a year to administer, said Robert Eskridge, BAC's vice chancellor for development and planning.

This includes salaries for three newly-created, full-time positions, two part-time positions, and office supply costs. Costs for the remainder of the 1987-88 fiscal year are projected at $51,000, Eskridge said.

Granite City Steel will pay tuition and fees for its employees enrolled at the center.

"It's a great partnership with the college," said Frank Pugh, Granite City Steel's manager of employment and training.

Don Koleson, BAC's dean of technical education programs, said students will follow the same procedures as before the takeover.

"We will continue to do the same things," he said. "We will also be looking at expanding courses and new formats for courses to accommodate the industrial community."

Courses at the center, once designed at the steel firm's apprenticeship program, have

Congressional debate scheduled in Granite City

GRANITE CITY — Democratic Party primary contenders will debate at the Granite City High School auditorium on Wednesday evening, Feb. 3.

Scheduled to appear before a panel of Metro East Journalists are: Madison County Auditor Pete Fields, 42, Glen Carbon; St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, 38, Belleville; Mike Mansfield, 35, Belleville; chief aide to U.S. Rep. Mel Price; and Steve Maragides, 50, Madison, administrative law judge with the Illinois Department of Revenue.

The debate will be sponsored by the Granite City Press-Record/Journal in cooperation with the Suburban Newspapers of Greater St. Louis. Impaneled as questioners will be representatives from the following newspapers: Alton Telegraph, Alton Citizen-Journal, Collinsville Herald-Journal, Belleville Journal and Press-Record/Journal.

Moderating the event will be Don Edling, publisher of the Collinsville Herald-Journal and former editorial director of St. Louis News Service.

The auditorium, 3101 Madison Ave., provides padded, elevated seating. The debate is free and seats are available to the first 650 persons to arrive.

Reports that Costello was "ducking" the debate are "themselves debatable," said Press-Record/Journal Editor Jack C. Ventimiglia. He said the debate was tentatively scheduled to be Jan. 27, but Costello was the lone candidate who could not appear on that date due to an unspecified commitment in Washington. Costello provided several alternative dates and the one closest to March 15, the winner will compete in the general election in November against Bob Gaffney, Greenville.

Price, 62, will retire in January 1989.

PERSONALITIES OF 1987: Tammie and Jason Robertson are selected as the Personalities of the Year by the Press-Record/Journal.

Robertsons named paper's 'Personality of the Year'

GRANITE CITY — The Press-Record/Journal's "Personality of the Year" distinction goes this year to Tammie Robertson and her son, Jason, a mother and son who have drawn international attention for their unique method of dealing with AIDS.

Mrs. Robertson, 28, decided that Jason, 7, might face difficulty from angry parents in School District 9 if he attended school with other children. Jason, who has AIDS-related complex, was put in a classroom by himself at his mother's request.

Mrs. Robertson has said she will re-evaluate Jason's education at the end of the school year. She said she would consult with board members at the Jan. 5 meeting about why she wants to re-evaluate the education he's getting.

Pump project gains support

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — After some hesitation, the city has "signed on" to a massive flood control project for the American Bottoms area.

A project to control high groundwater in Granite City and other nearby communities by pumping millions of gallons of water into the Mississippi River is being proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

At its Dec. 22 meeting, the City Council passed a resolution to give the Corps a "letter of intent" to participate in the project. But the letter won't commit the city to spend any money for the project, which is estimated to cost about $8 million.

In October, Mayor Van Dee Cruse, responding to a Corps request for the city to become a sponsor, sent the Corps a letter declining the request.

But at the council meeting, 7th Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen said he attended a Dec. 16 meeting concerning the project and was told by the Corps that, without a letter of intent, the city by Jan. 10, the project would be killed.

Worthen said he was surprised to learn that Cruse had sent a letter declining to support the project, which Worthen said he considered an important flood control measure needed in the Quad City area.

Worthen then called for a resolution in support of the project. Cruse said he "misunderstood the Corps' request and thought the letter of intent would have obligated the city financially."

"I'm not opposed to this project," Cruse said. "I'm not going to commit ourselves to something unseen," Cruse said.

Cruse said he was now satisfied that sending a letter of intent does not obligate the city to spend any money.

Dan Marshall, of the Corps' St. Louis office and who prepared a preliminary report of the project, said the Corps' decision was required by the federal government. He said the

MESD tax rate would rise

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — More tax money for the Metro East Sanitary District may be necessary if a proposal to build a regional flood-control system is to get off the ground.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said he considers a proposed Army Corps of Engineers project — to construct a system of 60 wells and pumps in the American Bottoms region — a good idea.

The system would be built to control high groundwater levels — long viewed as a major problem in Granite City and other American Bottoms communities.

"This to me looks like a program that would be silly to let pass by," Wolf said.

Wolf said he will discuss with other area legislators introducing a bill to increase MESD's tax rate, a measure that he said may be necessary for MESD to maintain and operate the system if the project is built.

government requires a local sponsor to cover forward before more money is spent on such a project.

Marshall said federal and state agencies have already spent money on researching the project but would have shied if without local sponsors.

Marshall said he tried to get 14 communities and townships to band together in a joint sponsorship. He said none of the communities agreed to sponsor the project.

The Metro East Sanitary District has agreed to be a local sponsor and would eventually operate the pumping system if the project is built, Marshall said.

A system of 60 wells and pumps in communities that are most affected by high groundwa-

"I think it's something we (legislators) should discuss. That has to be done by legislation," Wolf said. MESD was created by state statute.

Wolf estimated that MESD would need an increase of about 10 cents above the current 21-cent top rate the district collects per $100 of assessed valuation on real estate property in the district, composed of the Quad City and East St. Louis areas.

MESD has agreed to be the local sponsor for the project, which is estimated to cost about $8 million in construction costs and $400,000 in annual operation costs. The increased tax rate would be used for the annual costs.

Wolf said he attended a Dec. 16 meeting at the Collinsville Hilton to discuss the project with other officials. He said a general consensus was reached that the community would not need to pay for the construction costs and that MESD would be the logical entity to operate the system.

ter would pump about 41 million gallons of underground water daily into the Mississippi River, according to the Corps' preliminary study.

The idea is to decrease groundwater levels which, according to Corps estimates, would save at least $2.5 million in sewer damages and would cost about $400,000 a year to operate.

High groundwater has also been blamed for inhibiting development in some areas of the American Bottoms.

Communities such as Granite City, East St. Louis and Cahokia have complained of sewer problems aggravated by high groundwater — would benefit from the plan, the Corps study suggests.

Reduced service for vets expected due to delays

Veterans in the Madison County area can expect reduced service as a result of a delay in the receipt of federal funds.

According to Bob Fowler, director of Veterans Outreach Investment Counseling and Educational Services Inc. (VOICES), both the Edwardsville and Granite City offices will be understaffed for the next couple of months.

Fowler said he has laid off four full-time counselors and this will have an adverse affect on the services provided to veterans.

The Edwardsville office is available on Mondays and Tuesdays and the Granite City office is open on an almost full-time basis. These people and other veterans are volunteering to keep the offices open, he said.

Fowler said federal funding for 1988 should have been available to this area last July. He also said the Madison County Veterans Assistance Commission sought out and received County Board approval to contract with VOICES through the end of the county's fiscal year Nov. 30.

"We have a small contract with the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs that allows us to remain open," he said.

VOICES has provided service to 9,500 veterans since incorporating in 1981. Fowler said there have been an average of 270 new veterans per month since July 1, adding that VOICES accomplished 150 percent of the contractual requirements in the first five months of the program year.

"We won't be reporting this since we were not funded for it. The funding for this period was provided by the Madison County Veterans Assistance Commission with the approval of the Madison County Board," he said.

Fowler predicted the program will be fully funded by February or March. He said the program also has a good chance of being awarded a contract with the Small Business Administration to provide a Veterans Entrepreneurship Program in this area.

VOICES is seeking contributions. Fowler said Contributions can be mailed to VOICES Inc., 3675 Nameoki Road, Granite City, Ill. 62040, or can call 451-9100. MasterCard and VISA are accepted. Contributions are tax-deductible.

Funds will assist homeless

Nearly $1.8 million in federal Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) funding has been awarded to 37 organizations throughout the state to assist the homeless in Illinois.

Included are Madison County Community Development, $34,200, and St. Clair County, $66,569.

Awarded through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Emergency Community Services Homeless Grant Program, the grants are administered by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) and fund local activities undertaken by the state's 36 community action agencies and the Illinois Migrant Council.

"With winter upon us, the homeless in Illinois face a daily crisis, trying to find shelter and food," Gov. James Thompson said. "This will help provide shelter for the homeless and that can sharply reduce the problem of homelessness in Illinois."

Jay R. Hedges, DCCA director, said the funds will be used to expand comprehensive services to homeless individuals, assist the homeless in obtaining social and maintenance services and income support services, and promote private sector and other assistance to the homeless.

Hedges said the funds also will be used to provide follow-up and long-term services to help homeless people in making the transition out of poverty.

Drinking in city's buildings questioned

GRANITE CITY - A charge of selective enforcement of city ordinances is being leveled against the mayor's administration by a high-placed city official who insisted on anonymity.

The official said the administration is ignoring two Christmas parties involving beer at City Hall and the Police Station, violating a city ordinance and state statute. But he said the city plans to bring police Sgt. James Reader before the Fire and Police Commission as a charge of violating a city ordinance involving sick leave. The official is a friend of Reader.

Cruse said the matters are unrelated. Cruse said he is opposed to enforcing the prohibition. He said he would pay the $5 fine imposed for violating the ordinance. "I'm not going to be Scrooge," Cruse said.

TIF bonds approved again by Pontoon Beach Board
PONTON BEACH - An overabundance of Christmas harmony wasn't evident at the Village Board meeting Tuesday night when trustees voted to reconsider issuing $3,185,000 in Tax Incremental Bonds, Taxable Series.

The bond ordinance passed again, three votes to two. Trustees Bob Abel, Bob Vincent and Lou Whitsell voted yes and Trustees Loren Madison and Don Rea cast negative votes.

The ordinance was first adopted by an equally slim margin of votes on Dec. 8 when Vincent and Rea voted against the measure and Abel, Whitsell and Mayor Glen Wilson voted in favor.

Trustee Madison left the Dec. 8 meeting and his absence was recorded as an affirmative vote on a legal opinion from Village Attorney Keith Jensen, who cited village laws.

Tuesday night's reconsideration allowed Madison to vote no, and a shift by Vincent to a yes vote enabled its passage.

AIDS program slated for district parents

GRANITE CITY - An informational program about AIDS will be presented to District 9 parents.

The program will consist of a videotape, a talk by Superintendent Gib Walmsley and a question and answer session, said Tom C. Holloway, the district's director of vocational and career education.

Five presentations are planned. Holloway said, and will be sponsored through the Granite City Area Council of PTAs.

The first program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 12 at Wilson School for Wilson and Parkview parents.

Resident-only parking debated by aldermen

GRANITE CITY - An ordinance banning parking by all but residents on a portion of State Street caused the City Council to again debate the issue of selective parking on public streets.

Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney supported an ordinance for his ward that restricts parking on the southeast side of State Street for 500 feet northeast of its intersection with 29th Street. Parking will be limited to residents only between 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. on school days. The restriction was passed in a 10-3 vote.

Larry W. Miller, 19, same address, was sentenced by Romani to five years in prison on two counts of burglary and one count of residential burglary.

They burglarized residences, businesses and other buildings throughout the county, including buildings in Madison and Granite City.

The men were charged over a period of time on cases from a number of police departments, said Randy Massey, deputy state's attorney.

Madison County Associate Judge Charles Romani Jr. sentenced Parris to four years in prison with credit for time served while in custody.

A charge of sexual relations with families was dismissed by Romani on a motion by the state's attorney.

The charges were filed Jan. 30, 1986, following an investigation by Granite City police.

Man sentenced for theft

John L. Boatman Jr., Washington Park, pleaded guilty and was sentenced Dec. 14 on two counts of retail theft, second offense.

Madison County Associate Judge Charles Romani Jr. sentenced Harris, 39, to four years in prison with credit for time served in custody.

A charge of offenses relating to motor vehicles was dismissed by Romani on a motion by the state's attorney.

Deputies looking for man in connection with murder

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County Sheriff's Department is looking for a 66-year-old man who was a recent guest at the home of Adella Vallerius, a Holiday Shores woman found murdered at her home Christmas-Eve.

He is sought for questioning.

The man, Carroll E. Pieper, is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, weighs 155 pounds, has blue eyes and gray hair and is missing the tip of his left index finger, deputies said. He is also known as "Charlie" and is believed to live in the Chicago area.

Pieper is believed to be driving a two-tone tan or brown 1979 Chevrolet, station wagon with Illinois license CS-9796, authorities said. The word "retired" appears on the back panel of the vehicle.

The motor vehicle charge and an original charge of armed robbery were filed Aug. 24 following an investigation by Alton authorities.

Teen given probation

John D. Millsap, 2015 Elm Ave., pleaded guilty and was sentenced Dec. 2 on a burglary charge.

Millsap, 17, was sentenced by Madison County Circuit Judge Philip Rarick to two years of probation and was ordered to pay $90 court costs. A restitution amount will be determined by Rarick.

The charge was filed Sept. 21 after an investigation by Granite City police.

Jail, probation ordered

Jimnie D. Kimbro, 2816 Dale Ave., pleaded guilty and was sentenced in December on a reduced charge of theft of less than $300 value.

Madison County Circuit Judge

Philip Rarick sentenced Kimbro, 21, to one year of probation and to serve weekends in the Madison County jail for three months. Kimbro was also ordered to pay $57 court costs.

An original charge of burglary was filed Sept. 21 following an investigation by Granite City authorities.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

The Illinois legislature enacted legislation effective November 25, 1986, which stated that a plaintiff could not recover damages for a personal injury resulting from someone else's negligence if the plaintiff was more than 50% at fault. Prior to this legislation, even if the plaintiff was 99% at fault, he could still recover 1% of his damages. Thus, Illinois was a "pure" comparative negligence state prior to this new legislation.

In order to see how this "modified" comparative negligence doctrine will affect how cases are handled, one need only look at a hypothetical fact situation.

Let's assume that the plaintiff is driving his car on the highway, and he is struck by another vehicle in an intersection collision. In our hypothetical, the plaintiff claims that the defendant ran a red light, and the defendant makes the same claim with regard to the plaintiff. The plaintiff misses a great deal of work and sustains a concussion as well as neck and back injuries. After treating with an orthopedic surgeon, the plaintiff eventually goes back to work, but the doctor determines that he has permanent injuries as a result of this accident.

When the case goes to trial, the jury awards him $50,000 in damages. The jury also finds, however, that the plaintiff was 85% at fault in this accident. The results in this case would be different depending upon whether the "pure" comparative negligence system was in force or whether the "modified" comparative negligence doctrine was applicable.

Under the "pure" comparative negligence doctrine where the new 50% rule did not apply, the plaintiff would have obtained a judgment in the amount of $9,000. This sum represents 18% of the $50,000 verdict. Under the new law, however, the plaintiff would receive nothing. Since he was more than 50% at fault in the accident, he would be barred from recovering damages.

The Illinois Supreme Court noted in 1981 when it adopted the "pure" comparative negligence system that this was the only system which truly apportioned damages according to the relative fault of the parties. The Court felt that this was the only way to achieve total justice. The Illinois legislature, however, apparently felt that the 50% system better achieved the ends of justice. The proponents of this "modified" comparative negligence doctrine usually argue that a person who is more than 50% at fault in a given accident does not deserve to recover damages for injuries.

Isaiah 44:24 "...I am the Lord that make all things..."

How easy it is to forget that God is the Creator. Not only did He create the universe, but He is also the Creator of man. He made us. We did not make Him. Yet, we continually try to make God in our image.

We seem to want a God that winks at sin — one who is not at all serious about holiness and righteousness, and one who will let us live as we please.

He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him. We must exalt our Heavenly Father and submit our will to His. Let us fill the purpose for which we were created.

TENNIS TRAUMA

Many tennis players develop a condition with symptoms that usually display themselves on the first or second toes. These toes are afflicted with sharp, throbbing pain, as well as minor swelling. The toenails show streaks of purple beneath the nail plate due to sub-surface bleeding. All these symptoms add up to a condition known as "tennis toe." In effect, it is caused by an over-performing tennis shoe. The heel's sole of the shoe and surface of the tennis court conspire to create near-perfect traction. The result is a sneaker that can stop on a dime, enclosing a foot that continues its inertial movement. This action jams the toes repeatedly against the front of the shoe. This problem should be referred to the podiatrist.

Living Every Day

by Bob Thomas, President, Thomas Mortuaries Tradition - Dignity - Support

BE GOOD TO YOURSELF IN 1988

Your New Years Resolution should be simple. Be good to yourself in 1988. Give yourself Peace of Mind.

It has been written that God gives many people talent and wealth, but that he bestows Peace of Mind very rarely.

The sum of all of our other possessions does not necessarily add up to peace of mind, but peace of mind can flourish without the material supports of property and wealth.

One of the first steps to attaining peace of mind is to learn to love yourself more. Some will tell you that most people already love themselves too much, but a quick look at a newspaper filled with stories of suicide, drug addiction, alcoholism and other forms of self degradation shows that this isn't true.

A great many people spend their lives committing partial suicides, destroying their own talents, energies and creative qualities through self criticism.

There are many ways that we show contempt for ourselves. We often attribute superior powers to our neighbors, we exaggerate their abilities, overlook their liabilities, and sink into orgies of self criticism. The fallacy here is that we see in others only the surface of assurance and poise. If we could look deeper, we would see that, just like us, they bear within themselves the scars of many a lost battle and would judge ourselves a little less harshly.

Rather than go through life with dark colored glasses, assume your place as an equal in the adult world and realize that your strength is adequate to meet the problems of the world. If it wasn't you wouldn't have survived this long.

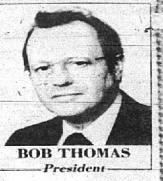

On the other hand, to attain proper self regard, you must also accept your imperfections. Each of us has imperfections. We must begin to know and accept yourself for what you are, an imperfect human being.

If you learn to respect yourself with all of your shortcomings and weaknesses and look realistically at your achievements you are on the road to attaining peace of mind.

But to actually attain peace of mind, you have to set your own goals and standards of living rather than adopting the goals and standards of others.

There will always be someone with more intelligence, who is better looking, who has more material wealth than we. If we are constantly in a marathon race with everyone around us, where we are anxious about those at our heels and envious of those ahead of us, we will never achieve inner peace.

The yearning for achievement is admirable in human beings, but the time has to come when we say, "I am no longer going to be interested in how much power or wealth another man possesses, so long as I can attain sufficient for the dignity and security of myself and family."

BOB THOMAS President

It is at this point in time when you will have given yourself the greatest gift of all, the gift of peace of mind.

Eighty-five members attended. Vera Johnson, district conductor, escorted Wilson and Garwood into the meeting hall, where the Shiloh president presented each with a corsage. Other escorted guests also were presented a gift.

her motto for the year is "Shine for Eagles."

Germans can trace family ancestry

For the almost 52 million Americans claiming German ancestry, the German Genealogical Society of America can help to trace family ancestries.

Founded in late 1986, the GSGA has 1,200 members throughout the United States, Canada and Australia. In May 1987 its Bulletin was awarded first place in the National Genealogical Society's annual genealogical newsletter competition.

"It is probably harder to trace your ancestors in Germany than in any other European country," according to Angus Baxter in his book "In Search of Your European Roots."

Many researchers believe the upheavals of World War II destroyed all records of genealogical works in Germany and therefore make no attempt to research German roots. Some genealogical records were destroyed but many more survived and are available to researchers who know where to find them and how to use them.

Members of the GSGA receive the monthly Bulletin with hints on researching German ancestors, and "an occasional publication," which contains in-depth, original articles on German and German-American genealogy.

They also receive a discount on research.

Charter memberships will be accepted until Dec. 31. Charter members receive initiation to all the benefits of regular membership, an additional 10 percent discount on subscription, and a personalized Charter Membership Certificate printed on fine paper and suitable for framing.

Charter membership, $25, regular membership, $15, and information and a copy of GSGA's award winning newsletter, can be received by sending GSGA, Department NP, P.O. Box 291818, Los Angeles, Calif. 90029.

Social Security

Q. My Social Security check gets here by the third of the month. Today is the fifth and my check still hasn't come. It has never been late. What should I do?

A. It doesn't happen often, but once in a while checks are late. If your check isn't delivered by the sixth of the month, get in touch with any Social Security office. The people there will help you find out what happened and see that you get your money.

Q. My wife and I both will be 65 next year. How soon should we apply for our Social Security benefits?

A. You should apply for retirement benefits about two to three months before you plan to retire. That way, your claim can be processed in time for your payments to start when you stop working. Even if you decide not to retire, you should file an application for Medicare two or three months before 65 to make sure you will have full Medicare protection starting at age 65.

Coming January 6th: A New Face in Classified.

On Wednesday, January 6th, Classified in the Suburban Journals will take on a new face... a new typeface that's bigger, brighter and easier to read.

Think of Classified ads as "news" about the things that you need and want. Reading the news that's in Journal Classified should be a pleasing experience. And when you place an ad, it should look good and bring you fast results. That's why Journal Classified will be taking on a new face. But we're not stopping there.

Starting on January 6th, Classified ads will appear at the top of the page. The bigger display ads will run below the ads in-column. You'll be able to find ads easier, and it will be more convenient for you to read and respond to the "news" in Classified.

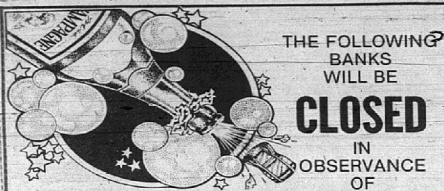

And beginning next month, the Journals will offer in-column logos to their business advertisers. A company's logo is part of its identity and needs to be included in every advertising message. And now it can be... in Journal Classified ads. Please ask your Journal sales representative for details, or call Classified at 877-7700.

In recent months, the Journals have made changes in the way that Classified is presented so that it's more convenient to read and to use. We continue to add classifications so that you can find what you want faster. And you'll now find editorial and news features for Real Estate and Automobiles in Classified. We've listened to your requests and will continue to make the changes which benefit you, our readers and advertisers.

BART SOLON President

Q. There is an old saying I've heard that goes something like, "A town grows up around its bank." Why is this — or is it?

A. There is a very firm basis behind that old saying. A bank provides services not only to individuals, but also to the community as a whole. At our bank, for example, we do everything from cashing a $2.00 check to helping businessmen buy new equipment to upgrading their operations, or getting started in a new venture. In savings, we try to attract the collective savings of the community, to reallocate them while they are busy working by earning interest. The reallocation is aimed at meeting the needs of the community through various loan and investment opportunities. These might include everything from personal loans to a family or for bonds financing a new school, hospital, hotel or restaurant. As a member of our community, you benefit at least twice — first when you collect the interest earned on your savings, or investment instrument and second from projects which improve our community.

Care

58 people depend on sheltered care

The latest funding crunch for the home has developed because of a discrepancy between what the Illinois Department of Public Aid pays the county to care for the public aid recipients at the home and the private-resident rate.

Public Aid pays for 46 of the residents. But under the state's funding formula, the county receives only about half the $825 monthly private-resident rate.

Only 12 residents at the home have sufficient personal or family resources to pay the private rate.

County officials have said the facility has been operating at a loss for several years and that a reserve fund shared by the sheltered care home and the Madison County Nursing Home is nearly exhausted.

Bo Stille, chairman of the County Board's Health Institutions Committee, which oversees both operations, says the drain on the reserve fund has been created largely by the sheltered care home.

"Because the nursing home fares considerably better in the state's reimbursement funding formula, according to Stille.

The County Board is expected to act on the problem Jan. 6 when it meets in special session.

Pumps

Granite City agrees to pumping program

Thirteen wells would be built in Granite City.

The project has two major hurdles to overcome, Marshall said.

One involves meeting federal and state environmental standards on what is pumped, into the river.

Marshall said high levels of organic and inorganic contaminants in the groundwater could halt the project. He said the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has already determined that iron manganese concentrates found in the groundwater are too high to be pumped into the river.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board could change the pollution rule to allow the pumping, Marshall said. He also said the water could be treated before being pumped into the river but that option would probably be too expensive.

An environmental impact study will be done later, Marshall said. Another problem is finding money to pay for annual operating costs.

D. Marshall said Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, is studying the possibility of introducing legislation that would enable MESD to increase its real estate tax levy.

An increase in MESD's tax rate limit would need approval by the legislature because MESD was created by state statute, he said.

to consider placing a proposal on the March 15 primary ballot, asking for a property tax increase for the home. The county now taxes at a rate of 2.5 cents per $100 of assessed value to support the two homes.

Stille said Monday the committee would meet before the special board session to determine the amount of new money a tax increase would have to generate and to prepare a resolution for board consideration.

Prospects for passage of a referendum are clouded, though. Voters last November soundly defeated a bond issue that would have enabled consolidation of the two homes and construction of a new building for them.

Marrone said that money woes for the sheltered care home predate her time at the facility. Threats of potential closure of the home for money reasons have surfaced periodically "for years," she said.

The most recent crisis was in 1992, when a "breather" after voters approved a referendum providing the current 2.5 cent rate.

Another closure had been avoided in 1979 Marrone said, when "by a fluke" the home qualified for a Community Development Block Grant of $210,000 that allowed officials to rewire and install a sprinkler system in the sheltered care home.

The funds averted the home's shutdown for failure to meet safety requirements.

JONES, Arthur W., 88, 2803 Benton St., died at 3:20 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 24, 1987, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The Rev. Hugh Wallace conducted funeral services Monday at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison

Funding for the home has always been tight, according to Marrone, who says she's gotten used to the emotional roller coaster of not knowing from year to year whether the home will be able to remain in operation.

"But it's not fair to the residents. They are just slow family and really consider this their home," she said.

"It's like if you built a home that you liked, and someone came along and decided they were going to put a highway through the middle of it," Marrone said.

"These people read the newspapers; they know what's going on. It's very unsettling for them."

The home accepts county residents who are elderly or mentally handicapped. Some of the residents, though, are just slow.

"We have some people who wouldn't be here at all if there had been such a thing as special education when they were growing up."

Marrone chafes at what she considers inaccurate public perception of the kinds of individuals who make their home at the institution.

"These people, many of them, helped to build this community. They made a contribution."

"A lot of the women here never worked outside of their own homes and were unable to set money aside."

Steel

Bell Area College to run steel program

grew into a major offering in Granite City Steel for approximately 300 students.

There were approximately 300 students taking 4,000 semester hours at the center this fall. One-third of the pupils were Granite City Steel employees.

Other students were BAC enrollees and the rest were students from other companies, Eskridge said.

"Last year, 49 separate businesses sent students to our courses at GC Steel," he said.

Board members said they were "told" in a memo from Eskridge, that a decision concerning the takeover could be delayed until January. However, some trustees said they didn't want to wait.

"I'm really ready to go with this," said Trustee Larry Reineck.

Reineck said he didn't want to give the impression that the school was against working with area industry.

"I would like to vote to get the right feeling to Granite City Steel," said Trustee Robert Dintel. "It's the golden rule for Belleville Area College."

Trustee Ted Farmer said he supported the program, but voted against the takeover because he felt Granite City Steel should pay more money to the college.

The program was initiated by Granite City Steel for approximately $200,000, Farmer said. Since a third of the pupils now trained at the center are Granite City Steel employees, the steel firm should pay the college $67,000, or one-third of $200,000, instead of the $30,000 it will pay for student tuition, he said.

Besides approving the takeover, the trustees also hired Richard A. Green as industrial specialist at the center. James H. Toler as industrial liaison and Char Lee Baldwin as secretary. Green and Toler will receive $20,000 a year and Baldwin will get $11,097.

Persons interested in information about the training center's programs can call Koleson at 1-800-225-5131, extension 319, or Harold Johnson, dean of instruction at Granite City Campus, at 1-800-225-5131, extensions 441 or 442.

"It's just not fair. When it comes to budget time, the home gets lumped in with the county animal shelter," Marrone said.

Marrone said the home is best described as a setting "between independent living and a nursing home."

Many of the residents at the home are fully capable of functioning on their own (some enjoy gardening in "plots" on the grounds) while some are "sometimes a little confused."

The home is one of only two such facilities licensed by the state in a seven-county region; and problems with finding suitable new homes for the residents would be substantial if not impossible, Marrone said.

The average stay for residents at the home is 5 1/2 years, but stays of as long as 20 years aren't unheard of, she said.

Usually, residents leave after being certified as needing skilled nursing home care.

On a tour this week through the home, which was still decked with Christmas decorations, Marrone proudly demonstrated an old-fashioned player piano, complete with dozens of paper song rolls.

The piano, a gift to the home from an anonymous donor, is in the main cafeteria, one of a half dozen common meeting areas in the home.

"You know, it's funny. No matter how confused people get, they never seem to forget the words to a song."

Tom Selleck shows star quality in film

By Harry Hamer
Staff affiliate

The feature films of television star Tom Selleck ("High Road to China," "Runaway" and "Lassiter") have met with lukewarm responses, at best. While Selleck's television work always has been a smash, his major motion picture career has been a minor disaster.

That is not the case any more, however. Selleck's starring role in "Three Men and a Cradle" has finally given him a headline role that lets him show all of his good sides. There is Selleck the funny, Selleck the serious, Selleck the adventurer, Selleck the daddy. It is a natural parody that has helped turn "Three Men and a Baby" into a runaway megahit, the kind most Hollywood producers would kill to have.

More importantly, Selleck has broken the bounds of episodic television at just the perfect time, since "Magnum P.I." is in its eighth and last season of production.

"Three Men and a Baby" is the Americanized version of a French film from 1985 called "Three Men and a Cradle," directed by Coline Serreau. Serreau was set to direct the U.S. version of the film but she backed out at the last minute and was replaced by Leonard Nimoy.

"When they were just talking to me about the project, they sent the original film over to me in Hawaii and I screened it," Selleck said. "I think the new film invites favorable comparison, not because our film is better, it's just different. The French version is much more of a farce than ours."

Selleck remembers changing cloth diapers on his son 19 years ago but since then it has been a long time since Magnum has taken care of a baby, in or out of a film.

"I had never worked much with babies, other than little, quick scenes," Selleck said. "So I realized what I was taking on."

But the beauty in our film is that there are no tricks. I really did handle and take care of the babies (twin sisters were used in the film to portray one child) because I wanted to welcome the spontaneity a baby would bring.

"It really threw me the first week, but once I got used to it things went fine, except, of course, that when you're working with an infant you have to keep reminding yourself that they don't read the script. They do what they want."

Being Tom Selleck is not always a pleasant experience. For instance, there is the problem of public recognition when you're just trying to be out in public as yourself, not Magnum.

Opera players at SIUE to perform

The Opera Players at SIUE will present "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss on Wednesday through Saturday, Jan. 13-16, at the Communications Building theater.

The Wednesday performance is a special matinee beginning at 2:30 p.m. Curtain for the Thursday through Saturday performances is at 8:15 p.m.

Cast members include P.J. Blecha and Kelly Stotz, both from Granite City.

According to their director, Ron Abraham, "Die Fledermaus" is a charming tale by the king of the waltz. It includes wonderful melodies, mistaken identities, and a sparkling account of a playful husband and charming wife, weaving their way through the intrigues of Viennese high society," says Abraham. He is a music faculty member at SIUE and faculty adviser for the Opera Players.

The presentation is a cooperative venture between students in the department of music and the department of theater and dance. The scene designer is Marcus Claudon and the costume designer is Reta Samples.

Duo-piano accompanists for "Die Fledermaus" are John Gross of the SIUE staff and Melanie Lawrence.

The performance is sponsored by the SIUE Opera Players, with support by the Student Activities Fund. Admission is by donation to the Opera Players Development Fund, a not-for-profit organization. Adults are asked to give $3, and senior citizens and students, $2. All tickets are general admission.

For more information, call the department of music at 692-3900.

Rescue of little girl, stock market, impact of AIDS got our attention in '87

Our "Tell It Like It Is" front-page feature in this week's Granite City Journal asked the question, "What event made the biggest impression on you in 1987?"

The thoughtful answers given were: the rescue of the little girl trapped in a well in Midland, Texas, the stock market crash, and the impact of AIDS on the nation.

IT IS OFTEN said that people are not wrapped up in their own concerns to pay much attention to others, but I don't believe that.

A good example is the rescue; it occurred far from Granite City, but everyone kept in close touch with the fate of 19-month-old Jessica McClure until the happy announcement, 58 hours later, that she was safe.

The same could be said of such local topics as the United Way and Tree of Lights fund drives. Their goals were not met on time this year, but the campaigns remain in each contributor's thoughts.

WHAT WERE the top stories of the past year? No single list would be agreed upon by everyone, but financial dilemmas are among the strong contenders. These range from the Illinois budget squeeze and education funding needs, at the state level, to the U.S. budget deficit and the foreign trade imbalance, at the national level.

Such matters seem much simpler when viewed closer to home. When a family runs out of money, in most cases it stops spending as much.

EVEN STATEWIDE, balanced budgets are required, although the degree of bond debt has risen at a pace that alarms some authorities.

Among the state government's borrowing devices is the Build Illinois program that has helped upgrade our infrastructure — streets, highways, sewers — and other basic public works. Interestingly, the state of Missouri began preparing this month to embark on a series of projects comparable to Build Illinois.

THE SEVERITY of the AIDS problem — acquired immune deficiency syndrome — is disputed by some. But surveys indicate it now exceeds cancer and heart disease as the leading health menace, in most Americans' opinion.

Aside from any other factors, AIDS occupies many people's thoughts because it is still incurable, because it is invariably fatal, and because experts say millions already are afflicted or have been exposed to it.

Another aspect of the problem is that victims become so disabled and their treatment is so long and costly that AIDS seems certain to drastically weaken America's already shaky ability to finance health insurance and medical-hospital care.

SIMILAR POINTS were voiced by Dr. Lawrence Harmon, Dr. Kevin Konzen and Dr. Paul Doroughazi at a community prayer breakfast held this fall at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, and they weren't talking about the cost of AIDS, which hasn't yet had a significant impact in the Midwest.

The three physicians were chosen to be speakers at the gathering because they are Granite City school graduates who returned to practice medicine here after completing their medical education. In choosing SMC as their place of work, they recognized its transition from a small community hospital to a major, state-of-the-art regional health center.

Dr. Harmon and Dr. Konzen are involved in general internal medicine, and Dr. Doroughazi performs general and thoracic surgery.

AS I RECALL the discussion at the breakfast, they said that much progress is being made in improving patients' health outlook, but that doctors nationally are worried. They worry that the rising technology and cost of health care will bring difficult choices in future years, forcing some compromises that can have an adverse effect on the quality of care.

The trend may be related to that affecting Social Security — growing numbers of middle-age and golden-age people, and comparatively fewer persons of younger age to help meet the cost.

Drug task force to monitor airport

A new drug task force in January will begin cracking down on drugs that come into the St. Louis area through Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

They will attempt to seize controlled substances as they are brought into this metropolitan area through the airport, said Kenneth Cloud, director of the project, which is to begin Jan. 4.

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

The consensus at the breakfast was that the caliber of medical treatment is not yet being harmed in Madison County but that it ultimately will be if current patterns prevail.

It is the rising pressure to contain costs by reducing the average length of an individual's hospital stay.

MATCHING this line of thinking, Television Channel 9 at 9 p.m. Jan. 5 will present "Who Lives, Who Dies," examining "differences in access to adequate health care" in the U.S. This program will assert that, in a land that spends more than any other on health care per person, 37 million Americans lack basic health services; cancer deaths are 15 percent higher among poor people, and persons without health insurance are 40 percent more likely to die of high blood pressure.

The one-hour show, among other targets, will assail Medicaid financial cutbacks, a point that undoubtedly would be strongly endorsed by Metro East doctors and hospitals.

SPEAKING OF Social Security, a federal pamphlet on "Your 1988 Social Security Deduction" is reminding workers that their payroll-tax deduction for Social Security and Medicare will increase from 7.15 percent in 1987 to 7.51 percent in 1988.

The earnings base on which it is paid will rise from $43,800 to $45,000. Employers also will pay more into Social Security and Medicare in '88, since they match the amount paid by employees.

THE RATE will remain 7.51 percent in 1989 and advance to 7.65 percent in 1990.

In listing the automatic increase, the pamphlet fails to note that the schedule can be — and probably will be — raised further as Congress reacts to living costs and the amount of revenue needed to keep the Social Security system solvent.

Give the public the power to decide board chairman

Voters will have a chance March 15 to change Madison County government. They should choose wisely.

The only thing that might keep the public from deciding the issue would be unforeseen, valid objections at a perfunctory hearing Jan. 7, but petition organizer Bob Barton, Granite City, says the petitions are OK.

If the petitions are in order, voters will decide if they want to elect the chairman rather than letting that position continue to be filled by a person chosen by County Board members. In electing the County Board chairman, voters would also empower the person to veto board decisions.

The public, not County Board members, should choose the chairman. The chairman controls various county jobs and it is only fair for the public to decide, directly through its vote, who should be at the helm when jobs are allocated.

Giving a publicly elected chairman veto power will ensure the "checks-and-balances" system functions in Madison County. Under current conditions, if the County Board were to make a bad decision, the public has only the courts as an option to change the decision. But an elected chairman would serve the public by checking the decisions and balancing them against the public's welfare. And balance appears again if a chairman's veto is thought to be wrong because the board could override it.

Putting the public in direct control of its representatives is the most acceptable course to take in a democratic society. We heartily endorse it.

2 staying in the spotlight

There is not much doubt that the major candidates for governor in the 1990 Illinois primary election will include Democrat Neil F. Hartigan, now the attorney general, and Republican Jim Edgar, now the secretary of state.

There also is not much doubt that their names will still be household words throughout the state when that time rolls around. Each manages to remain in the spotlight by carrying out his fundamental and extended duties and rendering a wide variety of services to the citizenry.

For example, we received word just the other day from Edgar that he is telling Illinoisans, "If you are driving on the highway this New Year's weekend, or at any other time this winter, seek shelter immediately if a sudden storm develops. Heavy snow and high winds can reduce your visibility to zero and force you off the road."

His stranded-in-a-blizzard advice continues, "Turn on your emergency flashers, raise the hood and attach a cloth to the antenna or a window. If help is not nearby, stay inside your car where you will have some shelter and are more likely to be found. Turn on the dome light at night to increase your chances of being seen. Beware of carbon monoxide poisoning; keep a downwind window slightly open for fresh air and run the engine and heater sparingly. Make sure that snow has not blocked the exhaust pipe."

Not to be outdone, Hartigan is reminding parents that the toys brought by Santa can bring heartbreak as well as joy: The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission tallied mishaps involving toys in 1986 and found 591,000 injuries and 35 deaths among youngsters below age 15.

Hartigan's advice: "Avoid toys not appropriate to the age, skills, abilities and interests of a youngster. Look for sturdy construction. In soft toys, look out for eyes, nose and other parts that might come loose. Avoid toys that shoot or project objects that might cause injury. For babies and toddlers, avoid toys with small parts that can be put in their mouth, or long strings or cords that may cause strangulation. Keep children from riding bikes and other toys under stairs, in traffic or into swimming pools."

As for which undoubtedly is sound advice. And a sound way of adhering to a basic political rule: Please the voters by providing all the services your budget can afford.

Academy saved, for now

Illinois has been trying to develop a high-tech image, to attract new industries and jobs. It would have been a big step backward if the state had to shut down its high-tech high school while the Aurora facility was still in its infancy—but it almost happened at mid-term.

The villain was the imbalance between our state's income and obligations. Fortunately, a "holiday advisory" contains word that the Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy "will continue to operate and finish the year."

The 380 gifted students at the residential school include 11 from Metro East—Granite City's Carlin Reed; from East St. Louis, Lisa Jackson, Tabanitha McDaniel, Tanisha Mimms and Harlan Stallings; from Edwardsville, Allison Atkinson and Eric Frost; Edgemont's Andrea Holmes; John Mench of Alton; Belleville's John Ferrell; and Alvin Romulus of Alorton.

One of only three of its kind in the nation, IMSA bridges the 10th, 11th and 12th grades and the first year of college. Students benefit by regular contact with researchers and scientists, and there are many direct and indirect benefits for the state.

The 1987-88 year was saved by a supplemental appropriation, five months after the regular legislative session had ended. Residents hope 1988-89 can be funded much less dramatically.

Police chief labels story on drinking at party 'petty'

To the editor:

In response to the front page article in the Sunday Journal, Dec. 27, 1987, I must say that I have read of many petty issues, but this is the worst.

I have been a police officer in Granite City for 26 years on May 1, 1988, and I have served under four mayors: Leonard Davis, Donald Payne Sr., Paul Schuler and Von De-Cruse.

During this time period, I cannot ever remember the Police Department not having a Christmas party for its members, their families, city officials and friends. This year, being no different than other years, I was approached by the officers of Police Local Union 1347 who requested the party at the union's expense.

Permission to have the party was requested of the mayor's office and was granted. Invitations were sent to every council member as well as other city officials and office workers by the police union.

The union was informed by myself not to have any hard liquor on the premises, but I advised that I would permit beer, along with soda, and of course the food, which was catered by Charlie's Restaurant.

The party was held in the basement of the station so as not to interfere with police operations and was held between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Approximately 125 people appeared at the party, including the mayor, two city councilmembers, five aldermen, some retired police officers, wives and some family members, along with city office workers and a Congressional candidate.

The party was quiet in nature, friendly and expressive of a Christmas atmosphere. Most people ate, exchanged friendly words, and left. I think it was in poor taste and politically motivated that the high ranking city official, as referred to in your paper as wishing anonymity, would bring up such a trivial matter.

I also think it was in poor taste to attempt to corrupt a traditional Christmas party to the serious charges brought by myself against Sgt. James Reader, which the article stated "is a close friend of the high ranking city official" as though it is a violation of equal magnitude. If this is not political, what is?

Since becoming the chief of police in July 1987, I have succeeded in upgrading the morale of the department and in again enjoying the spirit of professionalism. This department continues to reflect credit on the city of Granite City, as was recently exhibited by GCPD's participation in the apprehension of the Illinois highway sniper, who has also been charged with the attempted murder of the Clark Service Station attendant.

Also, in the last two weeks, five burglars have been captured by GCPD officers in the act of committing the crimes.

It is time for certain politicians to leave this department alone and let us perform our duties, as we have been sworn to do.

Last but not least, let me say this: If a city ordinance was violated by having beer in a municipal building, it was done in ignorance of its existence. Why did this subject come to light at this point in time?

The ordinance, which was passed in 1975, apparently had no meaning to my predecessors or former mayor in relation to the holiday season, since I have attended every department Christmas party and every City Hall Christmas party in the past 10 years and alcohol was always present.

The proper place to air this type of complaint should be on the council floor, not in the newspapers.

Takes 'shot' at Mansfield for mass mailing in district

To the editor:

Supporters of Mike Mansfield are trying to muddy the campaign waters by demanding that other candidates quit their jobs to run for office. They would do well to look at their own candidate's record.

Not only is he still employed on the staff of U.S. Rep. Mel Price—he has taken only a leave of absence—but he has used the congressman's mailing privileges to blanket the district with a questionnaire asking voters what the issues are.

He has also used the mailing privilege which you and I pay for to send out a newsletter to the people in the 21st District.

Mansfield himself has said these are two things Price never believed in. He said that Price has stood on his record and that Price was simply spending taxpayers' money for publicity.

Isn't it strange that Price's philosophy of the last 43 years has changed? All of a sudden we are getting newsletters and questionnaires from Price which are to be returned to Mansfield's attention.

The attack on the other candidates is also transparently self-serving. To wit: If elected officials had to quit their jobs to run for office, there would be no such thing as an incumbent. If Mansfield wins, will he quit his job as congressman so that he can run for reelection as congressman?

Warning: I'm a criminal

Judge Dorothy Baker—Multnomah County, Ore.—daily hears horror stories about sexual abuse of children.

Baker has three daughters. Yet day in and day out she sees child molesters get away with it. For one technical reason or another, few do time and those incarcerated do little before they are back in circulation again—menacing children again.

When Richard Bateman, 47, appeared in her court, charged with sexually assaulting two children, a boy and a girl, both age 5, he pleaded no contest. He'd already been imprisoned for kidnapping and sodomy and had been arrested for other child-sex crimes.

That was Baker to do with him? Send him to jail and he could be out in only 36 days. But if she put him on probation for 10 years he would remain under the control of the court. She put him on probation.

She then specified that when he returned to his home neighborhood in Portland, Ore., he must post signs on both his automobile and his residence. Signs reading: Dangerous Sex Offender. No Children Allowed.

Bateman was outraged at having to post the signs.

And, as expected, the American Civil Liberties Union calls the signs "cruel and unusual punishment."

"Spare me," replies Baker. "This doesn't even come close to the kind of cruel and unusual punishment he inflicted on helpless children."

Radio station KOMO in Seattle conducted a town meeting on the issue. Response was overwhelming in support of the judge.

Parents and victims said that child molesters have "forfeited their civil rights."

Program participants called the judge's action "creative."

Nonetheless, on Dec. 24, the Oregon Court of Appeals heard arguments to vacate the judge's sentence.

Public labeling of dangerous felons is so far afield from our recent emphasis on forgiveness and rehabilitation that it is likely to be dismissed. Yet, any other poison must be identified.

Should not social lepers be quarantined, if not by confinement then by the sort of "truth in labeling" that Baker has invoked?

What do you think about making New Year's resolutions?

As the end of 1987 draws near and the new year approaches, what do you think about making New Year's resolutions?

Dr. Gerard Baggot,

"New Year's resolutions are all good, the only problem is keeping them. We should always strive to do better, but we don't have to wait until the beginning of the year to improve ourselves.

Hutchinson, Davis win titles as Warriors take 2nd place

By Carl Jacobs
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Mike Garland wanted to win the Granite City Holiday Wrestling Tournament as a foundation to build the rest of the season on.

And from the results of the two-day festivities, the first-year coach has a firm foundation.

Hoping to finish somewhere among the top teams, the Warriors placed 11 of 12 wrestlers in the all-important second day of the meet and came away with 19 1/2 team points and a second-place finish. But the Cahokia Grizzlies had a little too much strength for Granite City and won the tournament with 219 points.

Both Garland and Comanche coach Russ Baum were surprised by the Warriors' strong finish.

"I couldn't be any more proud of my kids," Garland said. "I didn't think we would do this well, but the kids have been working hard over the Christmas break and they turned it on and went after the team championship."

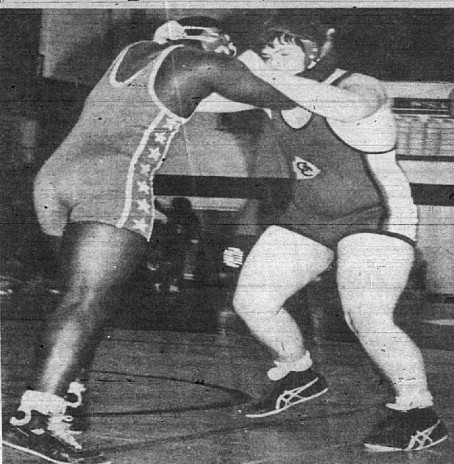

"I probably was one of the coaches that knew what Granite was capable of," Baum said. "I thought they might get fourth or third, but their wrestlers had a nice tournament."

The second-place finish even got Garland some accolades from legendary former Warrior coach Red Schmitt.

"Good job," he told Garland after the meet. "Not bad for a rookie."

Belleville East finished third with 161 1/2 points. Hazelwood Central took fourth with 148 points and Roxana was fifth with 144. Civic Memorial, 123 1/2; McCluer North, 119; Bloomington 116 1/2; Riverview Gardens, 107; Carbondale, 97; Wood River, 67; East St. Louis Lincoln, 54; Ritenour, 44 1/2; Triad, 38 1/2; Stephen Decatur, 36; and McCluer, 28 1/2, rounded out the field.

Todd Hutchinson (98 pounds) and Brent Davis (112 pounds) won individual championships for the Warriors. Scott Moss gained a second-place finish at 126. Rich Fenoglio took third at 138 as did Terry Stanley at 185. Rich Small-lie (105) took fourth and Bryan Pritchett captured fifth place at 119.

Hutchinson gained his individual championship by defeating Scott Coracy of Carbondale 17-0 in the first round of the championship matches, downing Kyle McEvoy of Hazelwood Central 13-2 in the second round and getting Scott Zimmerman 8-1 in the final.

"I just went out and did what I had to do," Hutchinson said. "There was a little extra pressure knowing I was a favorite, but I just wrestled like I was taught."

Davis cut seven pounds to participate in the 112 division and the work paid off for him. Wrestling in perhaps the toughest division of the meet, Davis downed Cahokia's Carlos Raigans 5-2 for the championship. "I felt good," Davis said. "I thought cutting weight would hurt me the first day, but once I got going I felt fine."

Davis trailed Raigans 2-1 in the first period, then tied the match 2-2 in the second before he got a near fall with less than a minute in the match to win. Moss, 129, also had a strong tournament despite losing to Jon Talbot in the final. Moss fell behind Talbot 7-3 in the second

Devils stunned in semis

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

COLUMBIA — It was like something out of the movie "Hoosiers," and Clinton Harris wouldn't give it a good review at all.

It's one of the great clichés of basketball when the underdog comes from behind and beats the favored team on a last-second jump shot from the top of the key. And it all came to life in the semifinals of the Columbia Holiday Tournament on Tuesday.

Mike Parmentier's 18-foot jump shot at the buzzer gave the Southwestern Plaza Bards a 62-60 win over top-seeded Venice to send the Devils into the third-place game on Wednesday against Gillespie.

In the third-place game, the Red Devils hung on for a 66-63 win over Gillespie (7-3). Venice led 42-26 at halftime but was outscored 26-15 in the third quarter before hanging on. Dale Turner had 19 points to lead the Red Devils. In the championship game, Waterloo Gbluul handed the Plaza Bards their first loss of the year with a 73-49 win.

After trailing 2-0, the Devils (7-2) came back and led Plaza all the way until Shawn Watson's two free throws tied the game with 54 seconds left. Dale Turner's three-pointer gave Venice a 60-55 lead, but Jeff Hall (23 points) scored and Parmentier made one of two free throws to make it a two-point game.

The Devils called a timeout with 2:34 left and went into a delay game. That lasted until Turner crashed into Watson and drew a charge with 54 seconds left.

"We didn't execute a lot of things," said Harris. "And that charge call was a judgment call like all the others. But we weren't in a position to get free throws because the only had two fouls in the second half (and five in the whole game)." Watson calmly sank a free throw to tie the game and the Devils then ran the clock down for the final shot. But Carlos Burch handled the dribble on the right side near midcourt. He misjudged the shot and lay on the floor. Watson, Parmentier, Turner and Briggs went to the floor and the jump ball gave possession to the Bards with 10 seconds left.

"I don't know what Carlos was thinking," Harris said. "He should have picked the ball up. He could pick it up but he couldn't dribble either."

After a Plaza timeout, the ball came back to Parmentier and he came down with Turner on him, turned and sank the jumper as time expired.

"I knew it was in," Parmentier said. "It's a great game, looking forward to playing Venice. They are a great team, but they are high school kids just like we are. Why should we be intimidated?"

"That's the type of player he is," said coach Darrel Burd said of Parmentier. "We just wanted to hang close and there were two keys for us. We wanted to stop their fast break and prevent them from getting second after three quarters, it was 40-47 of that, but we contained them."

Burd said he thought the big reason the Devils won the consolation game in the last three minutes was to protect center Daryl Jackson (16 points), who had four fouls.

"It wasn't a stall," Harris said. "We wanted to work the ball around easy layups. But they just stuck it to us. They

Granite City girls win one of three

MASCOUTAH — Forgive and forget.

That is, forgive John Hutchings and his Lady Warriors for wanting to forget the Mascoutah Girls Invitational. After defeating Albion 52-42 in the first round of the event, the Warriors got crushed by a torrid Mascoutah team 70-27 in the second round and bit the tournament dust with a 61-27 loss to Belleville West on Wednesday in the fifth place semifinals.

"We are in a shooting slump right now," Hutchings said. "I would just like to forget the tournament and go on. We had two tough games in a row."

Granite City shot less than 20 percent against Mascoutah and only warmed up to a cool 20 percent against the Maroons.

"We have been running into some cold rains lately," Hutchings said. "We were averaging 38 points a game two weeks ago, but now we would be lucky to be averaging 40."

Granite City came out of the locker room running the ball over and shooting frozen bricks. West took advantage of the slumping Warriors and streaked to an 11-2 lead. The closest the Warriors got all game was 17-12 early in the second quarter, but minutes later the Maroons led 31-14.

"We self-destructed in the first quarter," Hutchings said. "We turned the ball over. When we stole the ball we would give it right back to them but we didn't put the ball into the hoop."

run with a press to open the game. Maroon coach Larry Betz knew the move would shake the young Warriors and get his team going.

"We've been having some troubles getting into the game, so I thought the press might get them rattled and get our team into the game quickly," Betz said. "We have been working on the press in practice and I want to see what we could do."

After Kim Johannsen gave West a 3-0 lead on free throws, Granite City turned the ball over and missed four straight shots when they got a scoring opportunity. The Maroons then hit four unanswered baskets for an 11-0 lead.

"We were breaking through the front three in their press, but then we would throw the ball away after we got over the 10-second line," Hutchings said.

The Warriors put their game together for four minutes in the second quarter. Kim Pawlak hit two free throws to close West's margin to 13-6. After the teams traded baskets, Jennifer Cavness hit two buckets to move the Warriors to within five at 17-12. Granite City went back to turning the ball over and West quickly pulled away.

"West is a good team and if you are not having a good night offensively you need good defense to beat them," Hutchings said. "We played solid defense at times, but not good enough for how cold our offense was."

With the game out of reach at halftime, Hutchings wanted his Warriors to concentrate on scoring 10 points in each of the final quarters, but Granite City continued its frolicsome ways after intermission.

"We haven't been able to keep our minds on the game," Hutchings said. "Some of the girls get easily distracted. I just don't want them to get down because we can be much more competitive than this. Hopefully we will get out of this slump by going back to fundamentals."
